

Revising a Proposal.

Requirement is very few but need to be detailed across documents.

1. Paragraphs are too long, need to break each paragraph to 2-3 short ones.
2. Literature review section, add sub-headings, make it a clear structure. (This proposal is actually for a finished dissertation, you should use same/similar sub-headings as dissertation).
3. Methodology section, use sub-headings, (we must use, research approach, data collection, method, research ethics, etc).
4. A few sections are missing, gave a sample to follow, we need same structure and no elements missed.
5. Need to add 7-10 references.

I have attached the prof's feedback, the proposal to be edited, and samples.

The Prof's feedback:

Sorry for the late reply, Mingjian. I missed your email. Basically, your proposal looks ok. I would ask you to

1. the paragraphs are too long, each of them is more than a half page. Please break them down to 2-3 short ones.
2. in the literature review section, add a couple of sub-headings, as you did for the dissertation, to make this section a clear structure
3. again, in the methodology section, use some subheadings, such as research approach, data collection method, research ethics, etc., to make this section easier to follow.
4. some elements seem to be missing. Please check Mark's brief to see what needs to be covered in the proposal and do not miss any element.
